

Interview with Myrna Kostash:

0:25 Myrna Kostash describes her “re-entry” into the Ukrainian community in Edmonton after living in Toronto for several years. In the process, she met individuals from her generation who she considers “soul mates”.

2:55 Kostash recalls the first time she met Dr. Petryshyn. Dr. Petryshyn introduced her to the Hromada Cultural Society.

6:10 A description of The Hromada Housing Co-op in Edmonton, Alberta.

10:00 In 1977, Kostash interviewed Dr. Petryshyn about the election of the Parti Quebecois under Rene Levesque in Quebec for the magazine Chatelaine.

12:15 Kostash reads excerpts from this interview to highlight Dr. Petryshyn’s early commitment to multiculturalism.

20:00 Kostash describes how she and Dr. Petryshyn have begun collaborating once again in their work to address the calls of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission within the Ukrainian community and explore Indigenous-Ukrainian relations.

28:20 Kostash reflects on her upcoming book Ghosts in a Photograph: A Chronicle and her first book All of Baba’s Children.

35:42 Kostash shares various memories of Dr. Petryshyn, and reflects on his contributions to the Ukrainian community.